"Just as there is no man without self-love, so there is no man without love for the Fatherland, and this love gives education a sure key to the heart of man and a powerful support for the fight against his bad natural, personal, family and ancestral inclinations." In the conditions of the multinationality of our state, the issues of educating the younger generation both in a sense of respect for other nations and in a sense of love for the Motherland are of great importance in the education system. Patriotism (Greek πατριώτης - compatriot, πατρίς - fatherland) is a moral and political principle, a social feeling, the content of which is love for the fatherland and the willingness to subordinate one's private interests to its interests. Patriotism presupposes pride in the achievements and culture of one's Motherland, the desire to preserve its character and cultural characteristics and identification with other members of the nation, the willingness to subordinate one's interests to the interests of the country, the desire to protect the interests of the Motherland and one's people. Patriotism is love for the Motherland, devotion to one's Fatherland, the desire to serve its interests and readiness, even to the point of self-sacrifice, to defend it. At the personal level, patriotism acts as the most important, stable characteristic of a person, expressed in his worldview, moral ideals, and norms of behavior. Patriotism manifests itself in the actions and activities of a person. Originating from love for one's small Motherland, patriotic feelings, having gone through a number of stages on the way to their maturity, rise to national patriotic self-awareness, to conscious love for one's Fatherland. The concept of "Patriotic education" is the education of a citizen and patriot who has high social activity, civic responsibility, spirituality, possesses positive values and qualities, and is able to demonstrate them in the interests of the Fatherland. Patriotic education in modern conditions is a purposeful, morally conditioned process of preparing the younger generation to function and interact in a democratic society, to take initiative, to participate in the management of socially valuable affairs, to exercise rights and obligations, as well as to strengthen responsibility for one's political, moral and legal choices, for the maximum development of one's abilities in order to achieve success in life. To be a patriot means to feel oneself an integral part of the Fatherland. This complex feeling arises in preschool childhood, when the foundations of a value-based attitude to the surrounding world are laid, and is gradually formed in a child, in the course of nurturing love for one's loved ones, for kindergarten, for one's native places, and one's native country. Now, in a period of instability in society, there is a need to return to the best traditions of our people, to its age-old roots, to such eternal concepts as family, kinship, and Motherland. The most important goal of modern education and one of the priority tasks of society and the state is the education of a moral, responsible, proactive and competent citizen.

Patriotic education of primary school students is defined as a purposeful activity designed to form value orientations, qualities, and norms of behavior of a citizen and a patriot in children. It is important to teach children to value kindness, love, loyalty, duty, sincerity, modesty, responsiveness, humanity, and philanthropy. A necessary condition for the development of a person who is emotionally rich and intellectually developed, capable of critically treating himself and the world around him, is familiarization with the humanistic values of culture and the development of creative abilities. One of the most important problems of spiritual and moral development in modern socio-cultural conditions is the formation of value orientations. Purposeful systematic work on civic-patriotic education yields stable positive results: children master a system of knowledge about their small homeland; show interest in the culture, traditions, and customs of peoples, recognize themselves as citizens of their Fatherland, strive for self-education and self-realization. Children develop the beginnings of an effective attitude towards the Motherland, which is manifested in the ability to take care of family and friends, do good deeds towards others, take care of what was created by human labor, nature, and be responsible for the assigned task. The emergence of social motives for activity is the basis for the formation of moral qualities of the individual.

The technology of patriotic education should be aimed at creating conditions for the national revival of the country. An integral part of patriotic education is military-patriotic education aimed at developing readiness for military service as a special type of public service.

At the current stage of development of our society, the achievement of this goal for patriotic education is carried out through solving the following tasks:

- formation of racial, national, religious tolerance, development of friendly relations between peoples.

The implementation of the tasks of patriotic education of citizens is carried out through more specific tasks, taking into account the specifics of the subjects and objects of education, the conditions in which it is carried out, the peculiarities of their solution in the economic, social, legal, political, spiritual and other spheres.

Таким образом цель патриотического воспитания – развитие в обществе высокой социальной активности, гражданской ответственности, духовности, становление граждан, обладающих позитивными ценностями и качествами, способных проявить их в созидательном процессе в интересах Отечества, укрепления государства, обеспечения его жизненно важных интересов и устойчивого развития.
